Stickers still available

City Clerk Robert Stevens reports sales of city wheel tax stickers are lagging.

Stevens said the city vehicle licenses, which were to be purchased by May 1, are still available in his office on the first floor of City Hall, 2000 Edison Ave.

Automobile stickers cost $10, and truck stickers are available for a $15 fee.

Jury rejects denial in drug trial

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Even as he waited for the jury's verdict Thursday that now has him facing 10 years to life, Ron Flaughen, admittedly denied he had ever been part of a cocaine sales ring.

A mutual interest in motor boats, Flaughen said, was his only connection to alleged drug ringleader John Lanter. And, Flaughen said, a leaking roof was the only reason for his meeting with Lanter Nov. 30 — a meeting only hours before a $100,000 cocaine buy engineered by a federal sting operation.

A jury in federal court Thursday found Flaughen and co-defendants Aaron "Ace" Hall and Will Hall, both of East St. Louis, guilty on all counts following three weeks of trial and more than three hours of deliberation.

Each had been charged with conspiracy to distribute cocaine, using a firearm in connection with an illegal drug deal and being a felon in possession of a firearm.

Against the conspiracy charges against Flaughen and the Halls covered their actions during a four-year period, during the trial federal authorities charged they had been the "money men" behind the Nov. 30 cocaine buy. Flaughen was said to have received $50,000 in that deal and the Halls that same $50,000.

The buy was set up by federal informant Joe Sterkis, formerly of Sorento, and Lanter. Sterkis claims Lanter headed a Metro East drug ring that sold as much as five kilograms of cocaine a week for more than four years. Lanter, who also faces federal conspiracy charges, is scheduled for trial in July.

During the trial the jury listened to more than five hours of taped phone calls and conversations taped by Sterkis using a body microphone.

Their trial is the first in a series expected this summer involving what federal authorities are calling a large-scale illegal drug organization headed by Lanter. Sterkis, who worked undercover for about six months beginning last June, is expected to be the key witness in all of the cases.

Also facing federal charges as part of the Lanter organization are former Panama Jax owner Danny Collins, his son, former chairman of conspiracy and possession of cocaine, and former Panama Jax bouncer Dennis DeLuca, also of Collinsville, who faces charges involving possession of more

Child search program gets wider replacement

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Although the I-SEARCH program for missing children is failing, victim to state funding cuts, a new program aimed at a wider variety of victims is being started in its place.

"I-SHIELD" will target the needs of children, the elderly, the disabled and other "at-risk" groups," said J.W. "Steve" Bennett, operating manager of the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, the administering agency.

I-SHIELD, which offers coordinated training and crime prevention tactics to thousands of police officials and citizens throughout a seven-county area that includes Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Clinton, Randolph, Washington and Bond counties, SILEC is located on the second floor of the county jail building in Belleville.

With $20,000 in local funds, former

I-SEARCH coordinator Peggy McKinney of Swansea has begun the search for contributions that will launch I-SHIELD into the future, a committee of volunteers met Friday to discuss strategy, she said.

Gene Brombilech, former mayor of Collinsville and also former SILEC president, has been named to chair a blue ribbon committee to marshal support for the concept, which is aimed at finding assistance from corporations, businesses, civic and private organizations.

As of July 1, the state is pulling the plug on I-SEARCH funding across Illinois. Many municipalities are facing a significant up-front cost for such programs, but in this area it seemed more realistic to change I-SEARCH into a program that served a wider segment of the public and had a better chance of being funded, Bennett said.

It was Bennett who came up with the I-SHIELD idea, although he and St. Clair County Sheriff Mearl Justus pushed the (See SEARCH, Page 2A)

Walker receives 40-year sentence

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A defense attorney's argument for a lighter sentence backfired Thursday as his client was sentenced to 40 years in a state prison for strangling his girlfriend to death.

Jackie Ray Walker, 25, of Venice pleaded guilty March 5 to first-degree murder in the death of Diane Harris, 19. Through plea negotiations, Walker was guaranteed a sentence of 20 to 40 years — 20 years less than the maximum of 40.

Harris' body was discovered June 25, 1990, by housekeeping staff at the Illini Motel in Granite City. Walker and Harris had checked into the motel about 11 p.m. on June 24 after a trip to Six Flags Over the Midwest in St. Louis, Mo., taken at the behest of Walker.

Walker told police that he strangled Harris after she declined using an overdose of Tylenol to commit suicide, a method he said she told him had only made her sick in the past.

Walker told police he tried unsuccessfully to take a fatal dose of the medication but later sought treatment in the emergency room of a St. Louis hospital. While in the hospital, Walker gave a video-taped confession to police.

Walker told police that he had tried to strangle Harris with his hands but eventually used a webbed belt to kill her.

Attorney Brad Hunt said that Walker was not a hardened criminal.

Welfare workers picket here, across state

By Bob Slatte
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — About 25 members of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 2000 picketed at the Granite City office of the Illinois Department of Public Aid on Thursday.

The informational picketing was part of a state-wide protest against Gov. Jim Edgar's proposed budget. The budget plan includes elimination of 622 front-line jobs in the Public Aid offices, and massive layoffs at General Assistance township offices, according to Darron Dailey, local shop steward for the union.

Dailey estimated that 5,000 Public Aid and General Assistance employees statewide participated in the picketing from noon to 1 p.m. May 30.

Dailey said the proposed budget, if enacted, will have a "devastating" effect on services. He predicted that staff reductions will result in denial of food and shelter to more than 100,000 General Assistance clients.

He said other clients — including children, disabled individuals and elderly people — will have to wait longer for help, and asserted that fraud may be undetected.

According to information provided by the AFSCME union office in Chicago, the number of welfare recipients has increased by almost 20 percent over the last 15 months.

(See WORKERS, Page 8A)

EMPLOYEES of the Granite City office of the Illinois Department of Public Aid, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 2000, were out picketing Thursday. The local picketing, part of a state-wide protest of Governor Jim Edgar's proposed budget, took place in front of the Granite City Public Aid office.

Two charged in shooting

GRANITE CITY—Two city men are being held in connection with an alleged home invasion and shooting which took place May 25.

Charged are Johnny W. Lindsay, 26, of the 3100 block of Jill and Edward H. Moad Jr., 24, of the 1000 block of Market Street. Each was charged with home invasion and aggravated battery with a firearm.

Lindsay is being held in lieu of $500,000 bond. Moad is being held on bond set at $50,000.

According to Assistant Chief Ron Selph, Lindsay and Moad are alleged to have broken into the home of Michael P. Grizzard, 26, of the 1500 block of West 20th Street at 2:53 a.m. last Saturday. Selph said Grizzard told officers the two men came to his house and kicked in the door. Grizzard said he then shot Lindsay three times: once in each thigh and once in the right thigh.

A struggle ensued, Selph said, and one of the men obtained the gun, a .38 caliber pistol, and shot Grizzard in the forearm.

After the men left, Grizzard and his wife discovered Lindsay and also came to the hospital seeking treatment for gunshot wounds, Selph said.

Selph said the incident was another in a series involving Lindsay and others who have an ongoing feud. He also said Lindsay had been released from prison in the past year.

Driving review course planned

Four charged in theft of vehicle

Area residents were named in warrants issued by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine during the week of May 27.

Venice police sought warrants against four men in what appeared to be the attempted kidnapping of 19-year-old Charles Haines back May 27. Keeney, Daren N. Otis Robinson, 18, Ramon C. Anderson, 20, and Michael Hystek, 19, were each charged with one count of attempted offenses relative to a motor vehicle. No addresses for the suspects were available. Bail was set at $10,000 each.

An East St. Louis man was being held in the Madison County jail after Madison police sought a warrant charging him with theft over $300. Eric McCray of the 800 block of N. 75th Street allegedly took a Panasonic video cassette recorder from a Madison resident in a May 26 incident.

Lisa A. Slaton, 21, of the 2800 block of Myrtle Avenue, was charged with two counts of unlawful possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession with intent to deliver. In May 29 incident, Slaton allegedly possessed less than 200 grams of amphetamines and less than 15 grams of cocaine. Bail was set at $50,000 each.

Theresa L. Pakes, 26, of the 1700 block of Olive, was charged with deceptive practices. From Nov. 10 to Dec. 11, 1990, Pakes allegedly wrote bad checks totaling more than $200 at the Granite City K-mart store. Bail was set at $4,000.

Rickie Millender, 39, was charged with four counts of forgery. His address was not available. On May 24, Millender allegedly wrote checks at the Dollar General and K-mart stores in Granite City against the account of another man at the Maguire Bank of Columbia. Bail was set at $50,000.

Two Madison men were being charged with unlawful delivery of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. Granite City police allege that Darnell Wallace of the 1500 block of Market Street and Jimmy Thomas of the 900 block of Washington sold less than 200 grams of cocaine and intended to sell more than one but less than 15 grams of cocaine in a May 29 incident. Bail was set at $50,000 each.

Michael Slaton, 33, of the 300 block of Hill Street, and James E. Townsend, 23, of the 200 block of Carver Street, Madison, were being held in the Madison County Jail and being charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession with intent to deliver. Madison County Sheriff's Department alleges that the two possessed less than one gram of cocaine in a May 30 incident. Bail was set at $75,000 each.

concept statewide in a recent article they wrote for a publication of the Illinois Police Association. Bennett said he hopes other jurisdictions become interested.

The I-SHIELD board, made of police, county and municipal leaders from throughout the area, raised $20,000 to begin I-SHIELD. A $25,000 grant is also being sought from the state, McKinney said. The state, he said, the request won't be known until August. I-SHIELD funds have been provided through the Illinois State Police.

"I-SHIELD is an attempt to keep the public involved," Bennett said. "We think this is too critical to drop."

More importantly, however, is that there are a number of vulnerable segments of the community that need to be served, he said.

He cited a continuous increase in violent crimes, prisoner count and early release of criminals, child exploitation and the drug problem as reasons I-SHIELD is needed.

Bennett, a Pontoon Beach area resident, knows about the victim of crime. A few years ago his elderly parents were victims of a broad daylight, armed robbery in Hollywood, Fla.

But the trauma might have been worse had it not been for a caring policeman. "The officer couldn't have been more sympathetic, patient and helpful. I even wrote to his chief afterward."

I-SHIELD would generate that kind of compassion, Bennett feels.

I-SHIELD is also a natural vehicle for community-oriented policing," he said, referring to a concept used by many police departments in involving citizens in assisting law enforcement. "The officers cannot solve crime by themselves."

The primary goals of I-SHIELD are to provide educational programs, training and information to children, parents, teachers, senior citizens, the mentally and physically impaired, corporation personnel and their families and the community, focusing on ways to avoid victimization, Bennett said.

The heart of I-SHIELD would continue with programs on child identification, prevention education to children, parents and teachers, drug prevention education, focusing on kindergarten to third-grade students.

Unlike I-SHIELD, which stands for Illinois State Enforcement Against Violence, I-SHIELD is not an acronym, Bennett said, but a term that seemed to best encompass the intent of the program.

I-SHIELD has been a grant-funded program for six years, which the original conception called for the funding to be taken over on a local level, Bennett said. That never happened, and this year the Illinois State Police, faced with budget cuts, cut I-SHIELD.

I-SHIELD has its roots in the famous Adam Walsh murdered-child case.

McKinney said that even with $20,000, I-SHIELD should be able to proceed for several months beyond July, at which time it will be apparent how successful fund-raising will be.

lobbied vigorously against the legislation.

The proposal is intended to broaden the Illinois Open Meetings Act, which requires local governments to hold meetings in public unless there are special circumstances.

The legislation also raised the ire of the Municipal League, which the Illinois Municipal League and mayors around the state objected to, was removed from the bill late week.

Rep. Barbara Flynn Currie, D-Chicago, sponsored the bill, and she took the clause out "as a matter of practical reality." If she had not removed that section, she said, there was no way it would have passed.

Lawmakers satisfied that the offending provision had been struck, passed the bill on to the Senate on Friday.

Jailer not allowed to withdraw plea

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A former Madison County jailer's attempt to withdraw a guilty plea to drug and weapon charges was denied Friday.

Richard King, 43, of Venice testified that he did not know the difference between drug and weapon and consecutive sentences when he pleaded guilty to drug and weapon charges Jan. 8.

Concurrent sentences are served simultaneously while consecutive charges are served one after another.

King was already serving a five-year prison term he received after his intensive probation on a 1989 drug sale charge.

When he received an additional six-year sentence on charges of unlawful possession of cocaine.

King was also sentenced to five years in prison for unlawful possession of a firearm but Circuit Judge A.A. Mateosian ruled that the sentence would run concurrently with the six-year term.

Mateosian further ruled that the six-year term would run consecutively with the original five-year sentence.

"I believed he would run together with the first five, not 11 like I ended up with," King said.

The 1989 drug charge led to King's suspension and eventual firing from the Madison County Jail, where he had worked for eight years.

Assistant State's Attorney Rich Rybak argued that because of this work experience, along with King's previous prosecution on an aggravated battery charge, he was "not a novice to the criminal justice system."

Rybuk also read from a transcript of King's Jan. 8 sentencing hearing to show he understood the sentence he received.

"You were given a chance by the judge to tell him of anything that you didn't understand or to advise him that you were confused," Rybak said.

Defense attorney Paul Storment cited several cases in which guilty verdicts had been set aside because the defendants did not, for a variety of reasons, understand legal concepts.

"The defendant knew exactly what he was doing and he got a good deal," Mateosian ruled, adding that that "deal" had included the dismissal of some charges.

While the drug and firearm possession charges stuck, charges of armed violence and unlawful possession of more than 15 but less than 100 grams of cocaine were dismissed in the May 21, 1990, incident.

King was arrested shortly after 4 a.m. in the 900 block of Jackson Street in West Madison. King and a female companion were seen in a parked car by Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Jeff Bridick, who had been investigating the area in response to a fight call in the 100 block of Douglas Street.

When King showed Bridick his identification, Bridick found that King was in his probation. King admitted to Bridick that he was violating a 7 p.m. curfew.

When King was arrested, he was wearing a gun in a shoulder holster. In a search of King's automobile, officers found a felt Crown Royal liquor bag which contained several small plastic bags of cocaine.

In his testimony Friday, King admitted that there was a half-pint bottle of Crown Royal in his car but denied the presence of cocaine.

State board to rule on Flood's license

SPRINGFIELD — A state board will decide later this month whether to revoke the real estate broker's license of a Granite City woman who is serving time in federal prison and is working for the Real Estate Commission and Disciplinary Board of the Department of Professional Regulation will hold a hearing June 20 in Springfield for Gaye Flood, 57, a department spokesman said.

Flood was sentenced last fall to a federal prison in Kentucky for conspiring to defraud the government and making false statements on loan applications. Flood worked as a real estate agent for Granite City.

She began serving her 36-month sentence in January.

Flood's son, Rodney, now runs the firm. The board will decide if Flood's license should be revoked as a result of her conviction. Her license is set to expire in January.

Graduation marks turning point

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

The power went out, the heat was almost unbearable and the speakers had to address the audience with a bull horn at the Belleville Area College General Education Development graduation ceremony.

But the 432 students receiving their diplomas Thursday night did not let these things spoil the moment.

"I'm tickled to death," said Earl Briceken, 70, of Belleville. "I wouldn't miss it for the world. I wanted my kids and grandkids to see me get my diploma."

Some people need the GED to get a job, others need it to get a promotion, but like Briceken, many older adults want their diploma to satisfy an inner need.

Briceken dropped out of school in 1938 and finished his high school grade, because he had to find a job to help support his family during the Depression, he said.

He worked on a farm with his brother-in-law during the Depression, and then got into the vending business after World War II. After that he got married and raised a family of his own.

Briceken got married, had two children, 10 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. Then after he retired, his family encouraged him to get his GED.

Though he was apprehensive about going back to school after so many years, he scored two A's in his classes, he said.

"I wanted to encourage my grandkids and great-grandkids and other senior citizens that it can be done," Briceken said. "I hope others will find out about the GED and take the hint."

Briceken said there are many people his age who did not have an opportunity to finish high school.

One of his GED classmates, Julie Kollmeyer, 50, of Belleville, fits that description.

"I always wanted a high school diploma," Kollmeyer said. "It is just something I always wanted to do."

She too dropped out of high school to find work. She worked in a munitions factory during World War II. After that she got married and raised a family of her own.

Briceken said she knew it more than 50 years had slipped by and she had never finished high school, she said.

"I never had time to go back and finish school," she said.

"This year I had the opportunity, so I did it and thank God I made it."

Kollmeyer found it difficult to return to school after so many years. She had never studied algebra, geometry or science, but she enjoyed school and loved to learn new things so she stuck with it.

"It feels wonderful," she said.

"It's such an accomplishment."

Alexander Suhaney, 68, of Fairview Heights is another person who never had the chance to finish school.

Because of health problems as a child he did not attend school regularly and often had tutors.

As a teenager he grew tired of the inconsistency in his education so he abandoned school altogether, he said.

He educated himself by reading everything he could get his hands on he said. The job he found as an iron worker and in a copper plant did not require a high school diploma.

"When I turned 65 I thought it was about time I got my diploma," Suhaney said.

Another reason he returned to school is that his 19-year-old son, Tony, was going back for his GED, also.

Interview your prospective baby sitters carefully

Finding a baby sitter may sound like child's play to most people, but for parents with no relatives around to fill the bill, it's anything but easy.

Such parents must entrust their children to baby sitters they don't know.

The mobility of people today is a big factor, said Ramona Campero, who directs the Child Development Center at Christian Hospital Northeast in North St. Louis County.

She suggests polling neighbors, friends, co-workers, church members and other acquaintances for suggestions.

High-school guidance counselors or church youth leaders can be gold mines of information about trustworthy teens or older folks interested in sitting.

Don't rely solely on others' judgment, Campero said. Set up an interview with any new sitter.

Ask the prospective sitter to do it a time when the children are around, then observe how the sitter and children react to each other.

It's a good idea to ask the sitter what she would do if a stranger came to the door or if a child were injured.

During the initial interview, explain ground rules and expectations concerning visitors, keeping the house clean, bedtimes, discipline and refrigerator privileges.

Sitters who have taken baby sitter classes, often offered at community hospitals, are a good choice, Campero said.

Age is no yardstick in choosing a sitter, Campero said. "There are too many variables," she said. "It depends on the person."

Sitters should always be told to arrive early, Campero said, giving parents time to give instructions. The extra time also gives sitter and children a chance to warm up to each other.

The sitter should be told the children's routine, snack privileges, television and any bedtime rituals. If medicines are to be given, make sure the sitter understands the dosage and how to give the medicine.

The sitter should leave written instructions about where they will be and a number where they can be reached, as well as the number of a trusted neighbor or relative.

Don't forget the list of emergency numbers such as fire, police, ambulance service and poison control center.

Wise parents also review the house rules with their children before they leave.

Skinner sees success for Scott joint-use airport

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

U.S. Secretary of Transportation Samuel K. Skinner told area business and civic leaders last week that they are "on the right track" in their efforts to bring a joint-use airport to Scott Air Force Base.

"You have to have a good case, and you have to make that case in a logical way," Skinner said.

"And that's what you're doing, and that's why I predict that your efforts will be just as successful as Scott's," he said. A few years ago when a young George Bush came to this area, and 5,000 people showed up at the site of the Clark Bridge.

Skinner addressed about 360 people attending the Belleville Economic Progress Inc. luncheon Tuesday at Fischer's Restaurant.

He spoke on the future of surface and air transportation in the Midwest and nationwide.

He also spoke on how airports carried signs and had out literature outside the restaurant during Skinner's appearance.

Following Skinner's speech, Dennis Bielek of Boaftmen's Bilek Law Group, a small but vocal group of opponents could have had on the decision-making process.

"They can do a lot if they have a good case and articulate it."

"If you don't do enough planning and educating, they can exploit your weaknesses."

The nation's airlines, Skinner said, are still going through a transition period following deregulation.

As in any such transition, he said, some companies will survive and do well, and others won't make it.

"We're going through that very difficult time, and I think we are about through it," he said.

Skinner said he believes financially troubled TWA "is coming out" of its problems, and has the potential to be one of the five to seven major air carriers in the country.

He was enthusiastic about President Bush's Surface Transportation Reauthorization Bill, an ambitious and expensive project to rebuild the country's interstate highway system, improve public transit and increase highway safety.

The bill, which Skinner expected to be signed into law in September, carries a price tag of $108 billion, or only $20 million less than the price of the 1955 project to build the entire interstate highway system.

The Springfield-area native and University of Illinois graduate was appointed secretary of transportation on Feb. 1.

U.S. Congressman Al Dixon and Jerry Castello, both of whom spoke briefly at the BEPI dinner, said Skinner has gone from being relatively unknown to being the star of the Bush administration.

Skinner said he knew he had the coke sale, Lanter stopped at the Hardee's in Granite City to see Flaugher. Lanter told Sterns that Flaugher was going to give him $50,000 and, after Lanter said Flaugher, Lanter showed Sterns the money.

Flaugher said Thursday he didn't give Lanter any money at the meeting.

"What he was supposed to be bringing me was architectural drawings of his house," Flaugher said.

Flaugher said when he had gone to see Lanter's roof, he discovered it was supported by 10-inch beams rather than scissor joists. The beams, Flaugher said, were not capable of holding up the roof and had begun to bow.

"He has this great big fireplace and when the beams started sagging it pulled the roof away from the fireplace and the water just poured through," Flaugher said.

Flaugher said someone should be liable for the damage, either the architect or the builder, and he wanted to see the drawings to determine who had made the mistake.

"That's what I do for a living," Flaugher said.

Flaugher, who now lives in Granite City, said he was in Granite City to pick up an exhaust fan from his former Metro Marine boat repair shop on Missouri Avenue.

Flaugher is not connected with Quality Fiberglass, a boat repair shop in Granite City, he is located, although he is still a quarter-owner of the lot where it is located.

Ben Allen, Flaugher's attorney, speculated during final arguments that Lanter was afraid of Sterns and arranged the meeting with Flaugher in order to have a witness.

Allen, of Alton, pointed out that Lanter, an ex-elder, made sure he stopped and talked to his wife for the same reason.

All three defense attorneys argued that Sterns, who Lanter referred to as an "arsonist" and a "hit man," had a reputation of it were important.

one who has a close relationship to you is no less a crime than beating a stranger," Ferguson said. "It's an attitude far too many people have. ... In my mind that (close relationship) means it all the more important."

Ferguson also said that the nature of Walker's previous misdemeanor charge and the victim of it were important.

AMC Cinema to expand Movie Watcher's Club

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

American Multi Cinema will announce June 12 in Los Angeles that it is preparing to roll out its major markets the Movie Watcher's Club it now is testing in St. Louis and four other cities. The Kansas City-based chain, St. Louis' second largest exhibitor, operates theaters in 56 metropolitan areas in 26 states.

The club has an estimated 20,000 members in St. Louis, which has been tested for two years and is achieving its greatest success.

"We feel the Movie Watcher's Club gives us a strong competitive edge," said Greg Hogan, division marketing director for AMC. "Through the many privileges of belonging to the club, frequent moviegoers earn a lot of advantages, like invitations to pre-screenings, free concessions, and many other rewards."

The club concept has helped develop customer loyalty and improve a strong relationship with the most avid moviegoers.

In other words, when the frequent moviegoers have a choice of exhibitors, we think it has been proven the club will be one important reason for them to pick AMC."

Similar to airlines' frequent-flyer programs, the Movie Watcher's Club offers special incentives to members who frequently go to the movies. An additional incentive this year will be free concession coupons presented instantly to club members who have attained a specified number of points based on movie attendance.

Besides St. Louis, the club now is operating in Detroit, Dallas, Phoenix and Tampa.

TIDAL WAVE

The Tidal Wave, Six Flags' newest, wettest ride, is the hottest attraction in many years at the theme park in Eureka, said general manager Mike Paladini.

"The Tidal Wave doesn't take up that much space and wasn't a very complicated attraction to construct," Paladini said. "It lasts only about a minute and consists of one big drop (in a large, bus-size) down a slide into a pool of water that gives the effect of causing a small tidal wave."

The drenching riders get makes perfect sense when the area faces the scorching temperatures characteristic of St. Louis summers. But even before the latest heat wave, during a relatively cool spring period, patrons were lining up to wait as long as an hour to ride The Tidal Wave, he said.

PIANO MOVER WANTED

The Muny is facing a problem of sorts with its booking of cabaret star Michael Feinstein and his musical-theater debut in "The Muny" Christian Andersen, playing at The Muny July 8 through 14.

According to a story in The New York Times, Feinstein wants to make his entrance with his piano. "It's a problem for The Muny because a piano is not easily moved across the theater's 150-foot-wide stage."

The "Muny" director, Paul Black, said, "We could move it on bicycle wheels so I could pedal it on stage." Feinstein said in the article.

TERMINATOR 2 IS TOPS

"Terminator 2," which opens July 3 and is expected to gross more than $100 million to make it the most expensive movie ever produced in the United States, according to figures in Variety and other industry publications. It is expected to second place "Die Hard 2" in the $70-million hit from last summer.

The next most expensive film made in this country are: "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," 1988, $68 million; "The Godfather Part II," 1970, $63 million; "Rambo III," 1988, $58 million; "Days of Thunder," 1990, "Tango & Cash," 1988, "Raiders of the Lost Ark," 1981, all $55 million; "Superman II," 1980, $54 million; "The Adventures of Baron Munchausen," 1988, $52 million; and "Annie," 1982, $51.5 million.

"Hudson Hawk," Bruce Willis' new summer movie, missed this list by a hair, reportedly coming in at $51 million.

THE HOMETOWN TOP 5

The hottest films in St. Louis for the past week were:

"AMC's Backdraft," "What About Bob?" "The Muny & Louise," "Only the Lonely" and "Drop Dead Fred."

Wehrenberg: "Backdraft,"

"What About Bob?" "Hudson Hawk," "The Muny & Louise,"

On the national scene, "Backdraft" was the top grosser last week, raking in $16 million in its first weekend of release. "What About Bob?" came in second, pulling in $9 million in its second week.

Witter carries Lady Warriors to final four Junior has record-setting day

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

NAPEVILLE — What me, nervous? Not Amanda Witter. The Lady Warrior junior wasted little time in getting her name into the state tournament record book. Witter scored three goals in an opening round of the Downers Grove South 4-1 on Friday in the state quarterfinals at Naperville Central High School.

The Lady Warriors (20-2) advanced to play on Saturday's morning session and won their bonnie Valley (24-2-1). They then played for the state title or third place Saturday night.

Although she was assisted on all three goals, Witter showed some individual skill and ability on each part of her hat trick. Previously, eight girls had scored two goals in a state tournament game, including Collinsville's Kim Thompson in 1988. Witter, however, took charge on Friday with her 15th, 16th and 17th goals of the season to become the first girls player to ever score three goals in a state tournament game.

"I thought I could beat their defenders one on one," she said. "We were kind of nervous coming in here, but the first goal kind of took away the jitters. Until our third goal (Witter's second) it was anyone's game."

Actually, the Lady Warriors had a few shakey moments, particularly when the Mustangs cut the margin to 2-1 on Jennifer Johnson's goal early in the second half. But Witter took a throw-in from Tammy Dutko six minutes later, moved in unmarked on the left side and beat Downers Grove goalkeeper Jenaya Matyi with high shot at 50:47.

"We made a few mistakes early," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "She's a great trip up and then all of sudden everything got crazy. But Amanda got us going. She's a great player. Downers Grove played very physical and Amanda is one player strong enough to hold the ball against that and make the play. And she's a two-footed player."

She did just that at 28:06. Witter took a pass from Baker. Tim Rees, who weaved her away through three Mustang defenders, her shot banked off the right post and in.

Sophomore Ann Logan made it 2-0 on a great setup by senior Jennifer Johnson. Her shot went down the right wing and along the goal line to the right of Matyi. When the defenders converged, Hattie slid a pass out to Logan on the side for a point-blank shot. It was Logan's third of the season.

"I don't think we were nervous," said Downers Grove coach Tim Jacobsen, whose team finished the season at 16-2. "We were just very tight on defense. Our defense is usually very aggressive. This is the first time we've allowed four goals all year and Granite City is not particularly a high scoring team."

The Mustangs came on late in the half and Lisa Knaffl hit the post on a shot from an impossible angle. The pressure paid off 4:26 into the second half. Laura Schavilid a short pass to Johnson near the top of the penalty area and her quick shot beat Shannae Kult to the lower left corner.

It was only the eighth goal given up by the Lady Warriors this year. The state record is nine. Matyi, however, was disappointed giving up the goal, but it's not failure to give up a goal once in a while," said Baker. "We didn't play our normal style. We need to be more relaxed, make shorter passes and keep it square."

After Witter made it 3-1, she completed the hat trick at 65:46. Kult's long punt was fielded by Addie Lenzi to Witter. She took on Mustang defender Janet Hattie and out-maneuvered the middle of the field. Witter made a move to her right and blasted the ball off Matyi's hands.

"I wasn't thinking of passing there," Witter said. "I knew I could get by her."

"We had our game faces on today. We got up real early this morning and had a real good breakfast instead of just eating anything."

Senior Angela Binson was particularly solid defensive for the Lady Warriors, who outshot Downers Grove 15-6. They also had three corner kicks to only AMANDA WITTER scored the hat trick on Friday in the opening round of the Girls State Soccer Tournament in Naperville. Her goal at the 50 minute mark sealed the issue against Downers Grove South.

Triplets could have their best season ever

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — During his five years as manager of the Granite City Triplets, Ralph Burnett has been blessed with some talented teams.

But the best is yet to come for the defending District 22, North Division champions.

"This could be the best team I've ever had," Burnett said. "We've got more pitching, good skill position people, speed on the bases and a good lineup. This team is capable of playing competitive baseball on a consistent basis."

Fueling Burnett's enthusiasm is the pitching staff that features six quality arms. Rich Schardan, Chris Hill, Drake Marshall, Brian Harshany, Ryan Reeves and Jeff Miller have the ability to bring the Triplets another division crown.

"Those people can get the ball over the plate," Burnett said.

"Chris was our most consistent pitcher last year and Rich beat Tom Price (of Edwardsville) to claim the division title."

But Schardan, a freshman at Lindenwood College in St. Louis, suffered a serious knee injury last fall. He had reconstructive surgery on the knee and was expected to miss the entire season.

"Rich is a gutsy kid," Burnett said. "The doctors told him to take a year off, but this is his last season of legion ball and he wants to play. The guy's worked his butt off to prepare himself for the season."

"He's looked good in practice, and he hasn't shown any ill effects from his surgery. Rich is ready to go and he's going to play an important role on this team."

Another guy Burnett is counting on is Reeves. Slated to play centerfield, Reeves will also handle the stopper role in the bullpen.

"Ryan has the moxie to be a late-arriving relief man," Burnett said. "He's not overpowering, but he has a good breaking ball. The guy can throw strikes with that pitch."

"He has a good arm, and he probably has one of the best arms I've coached with the exception of Joe Wallace."

Granite City will also feature a stingy defense behind their tall and strong players. Mike Nordstrand (first base), Marshall (second base), Jeff Stephens (shortstop) and Harshany (third base) will patrol the infield, while Eric Lewis (left field), Reeves and Billy Van Dorn (right field) will be in the outfield. Dan Partney will handle the catching chores.

But how will the loss of Wallace affect the Triplets behind the plate?

"Dan Partney is a capable one for the Mustangs. Each team committed nine fouls.

"We had some momentum when it was 2-1 and then we had a free kick in their end," said Jacobsen. "But give some credit to Granite City. We didn't quit. We'll be back."

The Lady Warriors were back Saturday. Details of the semifinals and finals will appear in Wednesday's Journal.

a good arm back there, and he's steady on defense. I'm confident he can do the job, and so is Danny.

"He's heard all the criticism comparing him to Wallace. But Danny's getting tired of it. He just wants to play. He just wants to show what he's able to do."

Another area of concern is the lack of depth at the skill positions. A serious injury to one of the frontline players might throw a wrench into the works.

Burnett is already feeling the effects. Stephens broke his nose while playing soccer.

"Jeff will be back, but the question is when?" Burnett said. "I'm sure he'll be back in season opener (at O'Fallon on June 4). But I don't expect him to miss too many games. We have to stay healthy, however."

"An injury to one of our starters could force us to make some changes to force us to place some people at unfamiliar positions."

The addition of John Cozari, however, might alleviate the problem.

"John is going to be a valuable player on our bench," Burnett said. "He's capable of playing almost any position on the field and he's got a solid glove. He's a good addition."

To avoid the wear and tear of a long season, Burnett has lightened the schedule. The Triplets will play 19 district games and they'll take a weekend trip to play in two tournaments series at Evansville, Ind., on June 13.

Granite City will also host the second annual Tournament of Champions in early July, but the Triplets won't participate.

"We just plan on taking a week off," Burnett said. "We should keep our arms and legs fresh during the regular season. You never know what type of personality the season will take. Last year it came down to one game between us and Edwardsville. Fortunately, we won that game to capture the division.

But our guys were showing signs of fatigue from the long season. I want them a little fresher. I should that situation pop up again."

Burnett considers Edwardsville, which finished second at the state tournament last season, the team to beat in the division. The Triplets will be strong. St. Louis will stiffen the competition, but Burnett feels confident about his chances.

"(Edwardsville) can be beat," Burnett said. "We've got a competitive division in the north and any of those teams can knock Edwardsville off. That's why I feel confident about holding our own against them."

"We may not be very deep, but the people we have are solid baseball players. They have the mental frame of mind to have a consistent season."

Warrior football camp is June 4-8

The Granite City Warrior football coaching staff, under the direction of head coach Tom Wrostek, will conduct a camp June 4-8.

The camp will be held on the Granite City football field from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each day. The non-contact camp is an individualized fundamental and techniques camp designed to assist players in developing skills that will enable them to be better football players.

The camp is limited to students in grades six through 12, and the fee is $45. Each participant will receive an evaluation of their football and a T-shirt. Football shoes, socks, shorts and a desire to play football are the only requirements.

Applications may be picked up at the Granite City High School office. For more information, call assistant coach Larry Curry at 876-8044.
